About the Artist

Marni Myers has spent over 15 years as a graphic designer while continuing her interest in photography. She incorporates line, shape, color, form and typography into each image. Marni looks for a balance between positive and negative space depth of field and creatively cropping an image.

Marni was born in Skokie, Illinois in 1970 and lived in the Chicago area until moving to Denver in 1997. She received a B.S. degree in graphic design from the University of Wisconsin, Madison in 1992. Marni loves to travel and her photography is strongly influenced by visits to Italy, Belgium, France, Germany and the states. She now lives in Denver, Colorado where she takes abstract, outdoor, historic, night shots, and travel images of the area.

Marni prefers to capture a moment, an image frozen in time. Each image taken can be individually interpreted through one's own eyes. Her images are cropped in such a way that familiar views take on a unique look and feel. She works with single lens reflex film and digital format cameras. Night images are 5-10 minute exposures where she can see a story develop. Her work is black and white and color and all of her images have a long life due to using archival print processes, papers, canvas, matting and framing.

Marni's work has been exhibited in gallery shows and juried exhibitions in Denver and Colorado Springs. She is currently looking for more venues in the Denver-metro area to show her work.

Artist's Statement

After viewing work by famous photographers Henry Cartier-Bresson, Edward Weston, Paul Strand and Ansel Adams, I fell in love with photography. I enjoy marrying my graphic design and photography skills by incorporating color, typography and symmetry with positive and negative space, depth of field and creatively cropping an image. Many of my black and white travel and night images seem timeless while my color historic and abstract images have a more modern feel.
